Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Tuesday 26 Oct 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Mild but breezy, with rain at times.

Today:
Windy and generally cloudy with occasional outbreaks of rain likely, these heaviest and most persistent through the morning. Some drier, brighter spells possible during the afternoon but low cloud and drizzle likely across the Pennines throughout. Maximum temperature 16 deg C (61 deg F).

Tonight:
Remaining cloudy and windy for most into the evening and overnight. Generally dry but continued outbreaks of rain and drizzle likely across the Pennines. Mild. Minimum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Wednesday:
Remaining mild, windy and generally cloudy. Long periods of rain, heavy at times across western hills, but drier further east with some brightness possible. Maximum temperature 17 deg C (63 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Staying mild, cloudy and breezy at times, particularly on Friday. Spells of rain likely during the period, especially across western hills where rain will be heavy at times.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.